The Sale of Men's Pants

assumed vast proportions here. We did not ourselves realize how much below regular prices they were until customers who came prepared to laugh at the idea of Pants costing 47c. to $2.37 being any good, bought not only single pairs, but in lots of three to six pairs; when merchants came and bought by the dozens; when men who were wearing $5 pants matched them at $2.37, and bought freely. Then it was we telegraphed for the other half of the stock, and it is now here ready for selling. Mail orders will be filled to our best judgment, and are returnable if not satisfactory after examination. The stock comprises Extra-Long, Extra-Stout, and Extra-Stout Pants. and Extra-Short Pants.

Big Dry Goods Store,

Our bargains are based upon nothing but our capability to possess values. We are the plural of purchasing power, nothing being too vast, too enormous for us to purchase, provided it contains that which is worthy adoption by the people. Nothing in the world is beyond our reach-nothing beyond our power to purchase, if it be what true merchants ought to deal out to a great people.

Competitors Cannot Touch Our Prices, except by resorting to the subterfuge of advertising to sell goods between certain times, and then by a system of confining the selling to one salesperson, denying the privilege of buying these goods except to a lavored few; while our purchases are so extensive the same prices remain in force

Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday, Saturday, or until every vestige of the goods are sold.

Don't Delay Dress-Goods Buying.

Pity the poor merchant who had not bought heavily of Dress Goods before the tariff agita-Unmatchable Bargains for this week. Be sure tion. Already we are in receipt of advices advancing prices all along the line. Several deals which we were about to make were stopped short, but enough were made to make selling lively all this week at sale prices. Let the future take care of itself.

The entire line for spring is now ready.

Never were patterns prettier; never were such values known in Richmond.
